

An Up-date on the Two Town Renovations

Steve Soreff, MD

As the 2022 New Year began, so did the two, long-awaited and much-anticipated, town renovations commence in the Community Center's kitchen and the Old Town Hall. Although there has been much progress in both areas, the actual pace of work has been interrupted by weather conditions and supply chain issues. Here is what both looked like a Friday, May 13, 2022.

The kitchen at the Community Center

Work is nearly completed at the kitchen at the Community Center. The cabinets are in and the sink was being installed today. There is a new floor. This project is being done by a local building company, Gary Anderson Home Improvement. The work is planned to be completed in June.

The kitchenette at Old Town Hall

Meanwhile, at the Old Town Hall, three offices, one kitchenette and two bathroom-one regular and on handicap accessible are taking space. These will be the offices of Nottingham new SAU. Timothy Koumrian will be its new Superintendent. Solid Roots Construction out of Manchester is doing the work. According to Solid Roots Assistant Superintendent, Darin Schiavone, pending the arrival the new windows, that job will also be completed in June. The kitchenette and bathrooms will be accessible to the large room of the Old Town.

The Nottingham SA's offices are taking shape